Revised Tariff Measure Receives Harmonious Support by Democrats

Members of Finance Committee Meet to Finish Redraft of Income Tax Section

REDUCE EXEMPTED INCOMES

WASHINGTON, JUNE 21.—The Underwood-Simmons tariff revision bill as agreed upon by the Democrats of the senate committee went through a full day's session of the senate Democratic caucus today with practically no change and with harmonious support for most of the alterations the finance committee members had made in the original Underwood bill.

The tariff duties in chemicals, oils and paints, on earthenware and glass ware; and on two-thirds of the articles comprised in metal and machinery schedule, had been disposed of when the caucus adjourned late this afternoon. Democratic members of the finance committee met tonight to finish redrafting the income tax section of the bill. The important changes to be made in this provision reducing the exempted incomes from $4,000 to $3,000 probably will be completed Monday and the income tax and administrative features of the bill then will be turned over to the caucus for consideration. Criticism of the tariff bill in today's party conference was limited to a few specific features and half dozen of the items were sent back to the finance committee for further investigation and report. The committee's report putting cement on the free list was sustained after some debate. The proposed duties on flaring arc light carbons, on stained glass, and on field glasses, optical and surgical instruments and photographic lenses, came in for criticism and were referred back to the Democrats. Cheap automobiles as necessities of business and farming life were the subject of much of the debate. The finance committee Democrats had already cut the rates of the Underwood bill from 45 per cent ad valorem to 35 per cent on motor cars, cars at less than $1,500. Several Democratic senators favored a further cut on machines valued at less than $1,000. This demand was made on the ground that cheap automobiles were now commercial necessities. The caucus did not settle the automobile controversy but asked Chairman Simmons and his colleagues on the finance committee to investigate further.

Advocates of the lower duty claim the government would lose little revenue as the high priced machines pay most of the tariff.

Harmony is predicted by the Democratic leaders today after the caucus broke up. None of the bitterly fought sections of the bill had been reached, however, and no effort has been made thus far to assert the binding authority of the party caucus upon individual senators.

Senator Kern, the party leader, said the caucus would bind all its members upon all features of the bill except where they had made pledges to the constituents or felt that they could not conscientiously abide by the action of the majority.

Caucus consideration of the bill will be resumed at 10 a. m. Monday and it is believed the measure will be ready for presentation to the senate Thursday or Friday.

The income tax provision will not be given to the caucus until the committee is able to furnish also the estimates being prepared by the commissioner of corporations would bring in the income tax law would be in force within six months, were included within the taxing provisions.

Committee Completes Work.

The Democrats of the senate finance committee completed all work on the income tax and administrative features of the tariff bill late tonight. The revised draft will be sent to the printers tomorrow and will be submitted to the Democratic caucus Monday. The basis of $3,000 as the minimum income upon which an unmarried man must pay a tax was retained by the committee tonight. This reduction from the $4,000 minimum of the Underwood bill was agreed upon several days ago.

The committee changed many provisions affecting municipal bonds, mutual insurance companies and exempting chambers of commerce from the operation of the tax.

Chairman Simmons said tonight the income tax provision had been rewritten in many important features but members of the committee declined to give out a synopsis of the changes until the report is prepared for the caucus.

SYRACUSE WINS INTER- COLLEGIATE REGATTA

NATIONAL VARSITY ROWING HONORS
GO TO ORANGE CREW

Cornell Crosses Line a Close Second,
With Washington, Wisconsin and Columbia Following With But Few Seconds Between Them.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 21.—The national charter and caliber of college rowing in the United States were demonstrated here this afternoon in the formal feature race of the annual inter-collegiate regatta, after winning the two preliminary events of the program, Cornell, usually conceded to be the leading university of the country in rowing was forced to lower her colors to Syracuse and just escaped the added ignominy of being defeated by two western crews, the University of Wisconsin and Washington.

In a driving and spectacular finish, such as has not been seen on the Hudson river course for years the Orange Varsity rowed across the line a length ahead of Cornell, while pressing the exhausted Ithaca, eight came Washington less than a length behind and Wisconsin's bow lapping the stern of the Seattle entrants for national varsity rowing honors. Columbia, the pace makers for the first two miles, were fifth "uncooked to a turn," to use a coach's expression, while far in the rear Pennsylvania trailed in the wash of the five preceding crews.

A Spectacular Finish.

It was a race and finish that drove the sixty thousand spectators on observation trains, yachts and river banks almost frantic with excitement and enthusiasm and the usual organized cheering and singing lost all union and became a mere series of shrieks and yaps under the strain of the pressure of college loyalty. The victory of the Syracuse crew was a big surprise but the wonderful showing of the middle and far western eights was the feature and topic of conversation among the veteran oarsmen after the regatta.

The officials' time of the start "varsity race is perhaps the best indication of the closeness of the long struggle down the four mile course with the courage and stamina with which five of the six competing eights fought until the very finish. Syracuse finished in 19 minutes 28 2/5 seconds; Cornell 19 minutes 31 seconds; Washington two seconds later and Wisconsin three seconds behind Washington. Columbia crossed the line 19 minutes 38 1/5 seconds after the start and Pennsylvania trailed in last in 20 minutes 11 1/5 seconds. The time of the winning crew was the fastest in 1909 and but 35 1/5 seconds behind the record for the course made by Cornell in 1905, when Courtney's star crew sped over the course in 18:35 3/5. The predicted closeness of the races and the presence of the championship crew of the Pacific coast all helped to attract a gathering of rowing enthusiasts that probably broke all previous records for attendance. The long observation train was crowded until late comers hung like flies on the ends and sides and the entire west bank of the river was lined and massed with hundreds of parties who had journeyed from both cities and surrounding country to watch the struggle of the college sweep swimmers.

One after another the six crews took their places at the stake boats.

Preliminaries Quickly Passed.

Aligned across the mirror-like surface of the river they formed a beautiful spectacle as the Steward's boat drifted down to the mark. The usual preliminaries were quickly passed and at 6:20 the final call to the long grid in steady style was given. Columbia showing the way half a length ahead of Cornell which led Syracuse by three-quarters of a shell. The two western eights were within easy striking distance but Pennsylvania was already falling back. Washington and Columbia were rowing thirty-two with the other crews from two to way marked higher. At the half way mark Columbia was still in the lead but had jumped her stroke three points to hold the place. Both Syracuse and Cornell were traveling through the water in splendid style and had cut down the New Yorkers advantage until all three shells were lapped. The positions of the other eights were unchanged except that Pennsylvania was clearly out of the race. Thus the struggle continued until the Black river bridge hove in sight and the oarsmen prepared for the final spurt.

Syracuse Gains Lead.

Passing the "three mile point" stroke Thurston of the Syracuse crew lifted the stroke to forty to the minute and steadily ploughed into the lead. Cornell quickly answered the challenge, raising the powerful Courtney swing to thirty-six strokes and then began to show the strain and fell into third place at thirty-two. Wisconsin and Washington at thirty-three also moving up and the thousands began to cheer indiscriminately. As the battling eights entered the lane of anchored river craft the western oarsmen made their bid. The pace was beginning to tell on all three leaders and though they held to form they did not appear to get quite as much of the blade work as before. The orange oarsmen on course No. 1, edged into the van a foot at a time while Cornell, far out in the river on the No. 6 lane was struggling desperately to hold her lead. Ithaca answered stroke for stroke for a few moments and then began to slip back. Columbia too, was slipping and splashing a trifle and all the power was gone from the blade work.

Not so with the western oarsmen, however, for they hit up their stroke and pace and gradually moved up between Syracuse and Cornell until the thrill and closeness of the race reached across the water and gripped the spectators until they cheered, danced and hurled advice at the fighting crews like persons bereft of reason. Now the whistles were blowing and the cannons popping and yet the race was still to be won. Alternating between thirty-eight and forty Syracuse made it a steady spurt. Cornell tried gamely to answer but Courtney's crew did not have it in them.

Close Race For Second.

Coxswain Adler glanced across the water and realized that even second place was threatened and he drove the Cornell sweep swimmers to the task until they stuck to the stroke just long enough to save off the rush of Washington and Wisconsin. Even after Syracuse had crossed the finish line the western pair strove to win a place over Cornell, but they had started their sprint a trifle too late. A scant length separated Syracuse and Cornell and the oarsmen from Seattle in a finally rally brought the Ithaca over lapping the Ithaca and at the same time wrested third place from Wisconsin by a length. Columbia, all in, was another length behind the Badgers while some lengths in the rear the Quakers paddled doggedly to the finish.

Cornell Wins Four Oared Race.

Although shorn of the honors of the big event Cornell cleaned up in the four oared and freshman races in the opening event of the afternoon the Courtney four, rowing a splendid race easily took first place from Pennsylvania two and a half lengths with Columbia third. Wisconsin fourth and Washington fifth. Syracuse rowed out of the course and finished last with their time not being taken.

A harder task for the Cornellians, for the Wisconsin freshmen proved that Coach Vail has some splendid material for his 1914 varsity fight. The Wisconsin youngsters gained the orange eight but could not quite overtake Cornell. As they passed the finish line Cornell had a three-quarter length lead over Wisconsin in turn was about one and a half lengths ahead of Syracuse. Pennsylvania was fourth, three lengths behind and Columbia trailed in last the distance of a shell separating them from the Quakers. The times follow:

Cornell 4:40 4-5; Wisconsin 4:45; Syracuse 10:14 3-5; Pennsylvania 10:24 3-4; Columbia 10:29.

LAD KILLS GRANDFATHER AND WOUNDS GRANDMOTHER

Pulls Trigger of Shot Gun He Did Not Know Was Loaded and Charge Strikes Grand Parents.

Cleveland, June 21.—Benjamin M. Hull, 65, a prosperous farmer of Dover Center, near here was instantly killed and his wife was fatally wounded by his twelve year old grandson, LeRoy F. Reisinger of Elyria, late today. The boy was playing with a shot gun which he did not know was loaded and pulled the trigger. The great part of the charge of the shot struck his grandfather in the head killing him almost instantly. Part of the charge took effect in Mrs. Hull's right side and face, destroying the sight of one eye.

Neither of the old people saw the boy playing with the gun and as they fell wounded, the boy ran screaming the house of a neighbor saying that his grand parents had been wounded by the explosion of some cartridges placed on the stove. Later Sheriff Smith closely questioned young Reisinger who finally confessed the story of the shooting. The killing is held by the authorities to have been accidental.

AVOID CONTROVERSY OVER QUESTION OF MILITANT METHODS

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt Closes
Congress of International Woman Suffrage Alliance Without Controversy.

Budapest, June 21.—Thanks to the tactful leadership of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the president, the Congress of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance closed today without becoming entangled in a controversy over the question of militant methods in the advancement of the cause.

Mrs. Helena M. Swanwick of London introduced a resolution that in a country enjoying free speech, free press and freedom of organization, constitutional methods were best adapted to gain the enfranchisement of women, intending thereby to have the congress rebuke Mrs. Anne Cobden-Sanderson and Mrs. Charlotte Despard, English women, who delivered fiery harangues before the congress yesterday advocating militant tactics.

Mrs. Catt took the situation in hand and persuaded the congress not to discuss the resolution as it had already avowed its attitude on the question to be neutral. The selection of the next place of meeting was left to the board which will probably decide to the invitation of the German delegates to meet in Berlin.

OUTLINE METHODS FOR CURRENCY REFORM

AMERICAN BANKERS ASS'N OUTLINE
DETAILED STATEMENT

Commission Endorses Currency Plan
Devised by National Monetary Commission and Makes No Reference to Bill Recently Prepared at Washington.

New York, June 21.—Methods which should be pursued in reforming the currency system of the country according to the views of the American Bankers' association were outlined today in a detailed statement issued by the currency commission of that organization. The statement asks thirty-three questions authorized by a committee on banking and currency of the United States senate and was prepared by the commission which recently convened at Atlantic City, N. J. The commission endorsed the currency plan devised by the national monetary commission of which Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island was chairman. It made no reference to the bill recently prepared at Washington with the cooperation of President Wilson. Its recommendations in fact were framed before the publication of the administration bill. The commission urges that whatever system is adopted it be kept out of politics. The commission made no attempt to formulate a complete currency system, its recommendation being guided by the questions put to it by the sub-committee of the senate. It did state its belief, however, that a central banking institution should be established under governmental control. No reference was made as to methods to be employed in the regulation of such an institution or the appointment or election of its managing heads.

In expressing its ideas as to the establishment of a central bank, the commission, while not declaring a creation of an institution similar to the great central banks of the principal European countries points out that "the experience of commercial nations is that results can be better accomplished by the creation of a privately owned organization dominated and controlled by the government, as for instance, the Imperial Bank of Germany or the Bank of France. It serves to take the matter out of politics."

"The great danger," the statement continued, "is that if borrowers go direct to the treasury, politics will become an all-important and dominating influence."

One of the most important recommendations of the commission is made in reply to the question, "Should an elastic currency be authorized by law?"

"We believe that such a currency should be authorized by law," the answer runs. "The amount to be controlled by the gold reserve requirements against it. Such reserves should be ample, not less than 50 per cent as a recognized minimum. A special tax might be divided upon any deficiency of the reserve below the stipulated amount of it, this tax to be increased as the deficiency grows. Such provision would, in our opinion, prevent over-expansion of the currency."

Such currency should be issued by a central reserve association the commission believes, rather than by a member of a regional reserve or the United States treasury. These notes should be a most lien, not of the government, but of holders of the notes upon the assets of the association which issues them.

Capital is Increased From $400,000 to $10,000,000—Rothschilts In-

Henry Clay Pierce of St. Louis, chairman of the board of directors of the old Waters-Pierce company will retain a controlling interest in the reorganized company. The Rothschilds are heavily interested in an English corporation which is a strong rival of the Standard in England.

Govia, a lawyer of New York City, against the Chicago Traction company, which now operates the lines of the old Consolidated. The case will be appealed.

BRYAN FAVORS GLASS CURRENCY MEASURE

Secretary of State Will Use His Influence to Aid Glass Bill

STATEMENT IS WITHHELD

Reasons for Supporting Measure are Withheld as Result of Cabinet Conference

OTHER WASHINGTON NEWS

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Secretary Bryan tonight announced that he was strongly in favor of the Glass currency bill and let it be known that he would use what influence he could in bringing about its early enactment by congress.

Mr. Bryan had intended issuing a statement tonight giving his view on the measure in full and detailing his reasons for supporting it. The statement, however, will not be issued until tomorrow. His decision to withhold it being the result of a conference with President Wilson and members of the cabinet.

Secretary Bryan, it is understood, has given the subject of currency reform the closest attention and has come to the conclusion that the need of reform measures is urgent.

For many weeks rumors have been in circulation that Mr. Bryan was not in entire accord with those in charge of the currency reform plans and that he might use his influence to prevent the present action upon the legislation.

Will Go to Denver—Tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hackett will leave for Denver to remain through the summer months. Mr. Hackett owns a home there and they will keep house until a cooler season arrives. Their daughter, Mrs. W. A. Patterson, lives in Denver.

They Called on Bryan—John D. Cain and John Meany recently returned from an eastern trip. While in Washington, along with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ehnie and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Munson, they called on Secretary Bryan. Although there were forty-six people waiting to see the secretary of state, when he found the Jacksonville visitors were present he had them brought in at once and received them with great cordiality. The secretary said he well remembered Mr. Cain's father and that he went to school with his aunt.

Train Kills Horse—Charles Curtis, who recently moved from Jacksonville to Strawn's Crossing, where he is conducting a general merchandise store, lost a valuable horse Friday. The animal got on the right-of-way of the Alton railroad and was run down to the guards and in attempting to cross was literally ground to pieces.

LONDON'S ANCIENT TOWER.

A Beefeater and a Yeoman Lock Its Gates Every Night.

Strange to say, very few people are aware of an ancient custom which is still kept up at the Tower of London. Just before midnight a beefeater and the chief yeoman porter secure the keys from the governor's house to "lock up." Having received the keys they proceed to the guard room.

"Escort for the keys" calls out the porter, and a sergeant and six privates turn out.

The procession then marches off, and the sentries they pass issue the usual challenge of "Who goes there?" to which the answer is "Keys."

Arriving at the entrance to the Tower grounds, the lion's gate, the porter locks the gates and the party returns to the guardroom, the sentry challenging as before and receiving the same answer. However, on arrival at the guardroom again the sentry stationed there stamps his foot, at the same time giving the usual challenge.

"Keys," replies the porter.

"Whose keys?" the sentry asks.

"King George's keys."

"Advance King George's keys, and all's well."

The porter then says, "God bless King George," and all present respond with "Amen." The keys are then saluted and returned to the governor's house, where they remain until the next night's ceremony. — Pearson's Weekly.

COLOR BLINDNESS.

It Takes Some Peculiar Twists In the Matter of Heredity.

Professor Bateson in lecturing before the Royal institution on "Heredity of Sex" related some curious facts which had been discovered as the result of examining several generations of a family in which color blindness appeared.

A color blind woman was very rarely found, and she was always the daughter of a color blind man. Her sons and daughters would be normal, but if her daughters had sons they would be found to be normal and color blind in equal numbers.

A curious anomaly with reference to color blindness appeared in twin girls. They were exactly alike in appearance, but one girl was color blind and the other not. No explanation of this exception has been found.

Professor Bateson said that there was a popular belief that sons in certain respects took after their mothers and daughters after their fathers. Within a reasonable range of speculation this was so. As to sons taking after their mothers, they saw this in the experience of their own families. — London Cor. New York Times.

Why Clocks Get Out of Order.

The reason why mantelpiece clocks so often get out of order is so obvious that it is strange that attention to it has not been drawn before. A London clockmaker said:

"It is because mantelpieces are rarely level. If a clock meant for a mantelpiece is not placed in an exactly horizontal position it is sure to go wrong. When the clock gains or loses because of its slanting position people regularly move the hands forward or backward, as the case may be, in order to adjust it. Eventually the clock's hands are moved about so much that the mechanism gets out of order and the clock refuses even to tick. Watches and traveling clocks are constructed differently from the stationary clock, and they will go in any position. That is why they are relied upon more than the ornamental mantelpiece clock." — New York Times.

A Born Statesman.

"What's the idea, George?" inquired Mr. Washington. "Why do you chop down this cherry tree? Have you anything against cherry trees?"

"No, sir."

"Maybe you are in favor of deforestation?"

"No, sir."

"Doing this for a moving picture concern?"

"By no means."

"Then why chop down a tree?"

"I just thought of going on the stump," replied the future father of his country. And then Mr. Washington realized that George was a born statesman. — Kansas City Journal.

Rough on the Minister's Son.

Willie, aged five, was one day sent away from the dinner table for misbehavior. He went into the kitchen, and the maid said:

"Willie, I'd be ashamed to be sent away from the table, as big a boy as you are."

"Well, that's what a fellow gets for being born in a preacher's family," rejoined the little fellow. — Chicago News.

WHEN YOU BUY COFFEE you, of course, take it home, brew it and if it "hits the spot you will come back for more—and you will. If it doesn't taste right we lose.

We buy on cup quality, not on appearance. We match goods on the same basis. Our coffee is unvarying in quality, is the same today as the day we opened our store. We sell all of our coffees in BULK and by so doing save our customers at least 3 to 5c per pound. Coffee of an equal quality sold in packages costs from 3 to 5 cents more on the pound.

Here is one place to buy coffee where the quality will be found the same 365 days in the year. Roberts Blends do not vary and they never fail to satisfy.

LANA OIL Complexion Soap is skillfully made from the best and purest materials obtainable. Soaps inferior to LANA OIL are often sold at three times its price; so bear in mind the fact the whenever you pay more, you are probably paying part of the manufacturers' advertising expenses.

Our line of Soaps, Talcums, Toilet Waters, Face Powders is very complete and this pharmacy is fully equipped to give summer comfort to the skin.

TWO IMPORTANT MEASURES

The Illinois legislature in passing a bill granting to cities the right to do commercial lighting and in other ways to sell the product of utilities made ready for the statute books of Illinois a very important measure.
For years a fight has been made in the Illinois assembly to secure such a measure but each time in the past the big corporations have succeeded in killing the proposed bill. It was therefore really a matter of some surprise when the average citizen who looked with favor on the bill, that it was passed at this session. The bill is especially important in that it will give to cities a very potent means of defense against corporations which might otherwise make unfair demands or prices. The fact that a city will have the legal right to increase the equipment of its light plant for example and to sell power or current to private consumers will be very apt to make the corporations owning a light plant in that city wholly reasonable in the matter of rates and quite courteous in its treatment of the public. The cities have by this law a good weapon of defense for citizens. It is a weapon which should be used when needed and when needed only, for corporations which act with justice and fairness toward the public are entitled to protection and patronage and to a fair return on the money they have invested. The law is not intended to make these investments valueless. It is not intended to encourage cities to go into business but is intended to place cities in a position to successfully demand proper service and fair prices.

Another important measure passed by the legislature is the Tice road bill. If the intent of the law is carried out within a few years time Illinois will have a far-reaching system of hard roads, benefitting the entire populace of the state. There can be no question but that bad roads have a distinct bearing on the high cost of living, increasing as they do to such a large extent the cost of marketing farm products.

One purpose of the bill is to unify road work in the state and have the highways improved according to one general plan rather than by the plans put forward by the various road commissioners in the one hundred and two counties of the state.
Illinois has been behind other states in the matter of road improvement and the Tice bill will help the state to "catch up." No doubt there will soon be discussion as to the best route for a state road running from Springfield through Jacksonville to Winchester and then west to The Journal would be glad to print the opinions of citizens in this matter or any other relating to the bill.

The Tice bill will introduce into Illinois the system of state aid on the main roads of the state, estimated at from 18,000 to 20,000 miles of highways. These roads are to be selected by county boards, with the consent of the state highway commission. The state highway commission, composed of three members, will have general supervision of the construction of the state aid roads.

Three companion measures, passed by both houses, appropriate $500,- 000 from the automobile fund and $600,000 from the general fund for use during the next two years. The money is to be allotted to the counties according to their proportion of the total road and bridge tax of the state, except that Cook county is to receive 25 per cent of the amount it contributed to the state aid fund.
The counties must put up an amount equal to the amount contributed by the state.

This will mean that in the next two years the sum of $2,500,000 is to be spent on the main highways.
The main roads in Cook county must connect up with the main roads in adjoining counties. After roads are once constructed by the counties of the state they are to be taken over by the state for perpetual maintenance.

In each county a county superintendent of roads is to be selected by the county board after the examination of candidates by the state highway commission. He is to have charge of the state aid roads in the county. Counties are given the right to issue bonds for road purposes and may give financial assistance to townships. The measure contains strict regulations for the expenditure of local township road taxes, which amount to approximately $6,000,000 a year.

WERE AT GETTYSBURG FIFTY YEARS AGO

TWO JACKSONVILLE VETERANS FOUGHT IN FAMOUS BATTLE.

M. Hellenthal Was Taken Prisoner the First Day—Exchanged After Fifty Days of Hardship—Mathias Jensen an Artilleryman in Meade's Division—Both Men Will go to Anniversary of Battle.

There are said to be in Morgan county only two veterans of the war of the rebellion who took part in the great battle of Gettysburg on the union side, they are M. Hellenthal and M. Jensen. Down at Waverly lives Floyd Epling who following his conviction saw service in the battle as a member of the confederate army. All of these men in accordance with an act recently passed by the Illinois legislature are entitled to go to Gettysburg and take part in the fiftieth anniversary of the great battle at the expense of the state. Mr. Hellenthal and Mr. Jensen have made application for transportation in the way prescribed by law and County Clerk Boruff has sent their names to Adjutant General Dickson and they will probably leave this city on June 29th. No information has been received as to the route they will take but they will probably at some point join with four hundred and fifty other Illinois veterans who have made like applications.

Enlisted in Chicago.

Mr. Hellenthal enlisted for service in Chicago and served with the eighty-second regiment. On the first day of the three days battle he was taken prisoner and after fifty-seven days in prison at Belle Island was exchanged along with 809 others. This was the last exchange of prisoners during the whole civil war. The privations of prison life were such that when the time of exchange came practically all the prisoners were too weak for service but those who were especially sick and run down were the ones chosen to send back to the union army. There was of course method in this procedure for the rebel commanders wanted to send back only such soldiers as would be unfit for service for some time to come. After leaving Belle Island Mr. Hellenthal was at Annapolis for about four weeks during which he and his comrades were so well cared for that they regained their normal strength and health and were ready for service again. They were then sent under General Hooker to relieve General Rosecrans at Chattanooga. They arrived in time to take part in the conflict of Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge. Subsequently they marched with Sherman to Atlanta and then on to Washington for the grand review. Altogether Mr. Hellenthal has had a war experience of more than usual interest.

Gives Facts About Life.

Yesterday when asked something about his life during the war and prior to that time Mr. Hellenthal in a very modest way gave the following facts: "I was born at Michelbach, Bavaria in May 1838, and as a boy 8 years old came with my older brother to New York, my parents having died when I was a mere child. I remained with my brother until I was fourteen and then after repeated invitations from my aunt who lived on a farm near Peoria he planned a railroad ticket to my coat, placed me in care of the conductor and westward I came.

"From Buffalo to Toledo the journey was made by boat and then I came on to Chicago. That was in 1852 and I well remember Chicago was at that time a comparatively small city with its board walks and unpretentious store buildings and residences. After living on the farm with my aunt for a year I determined to learn a trade and went to Peoria where I apprenticed myself for three years to a firm of carriage trimmers. My wages the first year were $2.50 per week, $3.00 the second year and $4.00 the third but when my term of service was finished I knew my trade very well and had $250 in the bank. From Peoria I went to Cincinnati as that was then a great center of carriage making and for a year took employment with a firm where farther instruction was part of my pay. Then I went to Decatur where a good position was offered me. There in 1861 a company of cavalry was organized. As the government had no money each man who enlisted was required to buy his own horse and equipment. I purchased a horse and made all the arrangements to go when the firm I was working for prevailed upon me not to leave them. But the year following when Colonel Heckler began organizing a regiment in Chicago along with some others in the vicinity of Decatur I decided that I must enlist and I accordingly went to Chicago and did so. The regiment was for a month located at Camp Butler near Springfield and then went on down to Washington. From Washington we marched across the long bridge to Fairfax court house where we were in camp for a time. Shortly afterward we were at the battle of Fredericksburg but were held in reserve there and took no part in the conflict. It was at Fredericksburg that Burnside insisted upon making a direct attack from the front. Col. Sigel who commanded our corps would not consent to this method as he considered this to mean nothing but slaughter of his men and accordingly Gen. Howard was appointed in his place.

Army Camped at Emmetsburg. In April, 1863, we marched to Chancellorsville, Virginia. A short time afterwards Lee started for Pennsylvania and the army of the Potomac under General Hooker after him. Our corps No. 11 was on the right flank of the army. First came the cavalry then the first corps and then the eleventh corps. We crossed the Potomac at Goose Creek and camped at Emmetsburg four miles from Gettysburg. This was on June 9th and we remained there two days. Meanwhile the cavalry which led the advance of the right flank of the army met cavalry from Lee's army and although this meeting was not planned for July 1st, the conflict necessarily was opened. The first corps rallied to the support of the cavalry and a few hours later an orderly came dashing into Emmetsburg with orders to us to march in double quick time to aid the first corps and the cavalry. We complied with the order to march as quickly as possible and passing on through Gettysburg engaged at once in a close battle. Our company engaged the rebels in a great wheat field and I will never forget that the wheat was nearly six feet high and our enemies were almost hidden from us. We fought all day until darkness put an end to the conflict and then we retired to Cemetery Hill. Captain Kirchener was in command of our company. I might have mentioned before that prior to the battle of Gettysburg General Lee had replaced General Hooker as commander.

Taken Prisoner Second Day. "Early on July 2, as soon as it was light enough, fighting was resumed, the line of battle extending a number of miles in length. Sometimes early in that afternoon I with a soldier named Solomon was cut off from our company and taken prisoner so that then my direct and personal knowledge of the Gettysburg conflict came to an end. Along with 500 other captured soldiers under guard of the remnant of picket's charge I marched for two days and arrived at Stanton. Then we were taken to Richmond and housed in Libby prison. The following day we were taken to Belle Island where I remained for 50 days until exchanged. Our daily rations consisted of a slice of bread and a very small piece of nearly raw meat served at 9 o'clock each morning and at 6 o'clock in the afternoon a serving of 12 to 15 beans, another piece of bread and a cup of water from the James river. You can imagine at the end of 50 days that I was emaciated and thin. If I had stayed there a week longer a transfer would have been no use to me. On the day when the officer arrived to pick out the 800 who were to be exchanged when he saw me he asked no questions, but simply said that I could go. The 800 of us were taken out from the prison to a point known as the dead line. This was at 8 o'clock in the morning and there we remained until 5 in the afternoon without one morsel of food. Then we were taken into Richmond to the third floor of Libby prison to spend the night. There each man was given one slice of bread. Early the following morning we were loaded on flat cars which were to take us to City Point, where we were to be transferred to a boat which would convey us to Annapolis. Half way between Richmond and City Point we met a train load of 600 Johnnies who were going south in exchange for us. They were all in good condition and showed that they had been well fed and cared for. I will never forget how they cheered when they saw us and how they urged us to cheer up and be bright as better days were so near at hand. At length Annapolis was reached and after four weeks with plenty to eat we did not look the same men and were ready again for service. During that stay at Annapolis the oyster formed a large part of our diet as they were brought in by the boat load and could be bought at 20c a bushel in the shell.

Sent to Chattanooga.

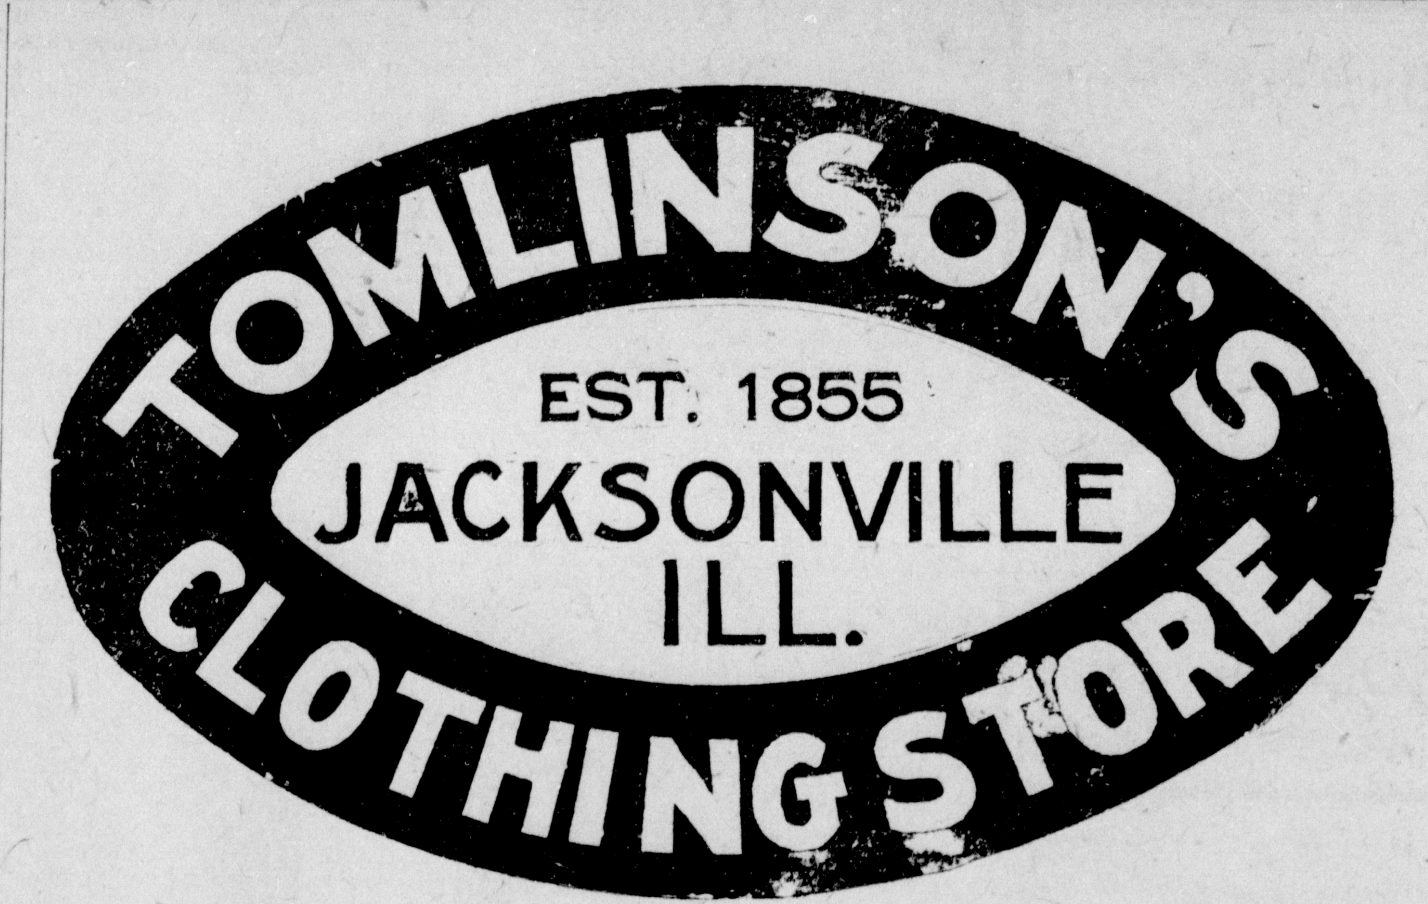

Strengthened in health and with new uniforms and equipment men of the 11th and 12th corps were formed into the 20th and sent out under Hooker to relieve Rosecrans at Chattanooga. I remember that when we arrived in Baltimore the local militia were lined up on both sides of the street and as they thought from our uniforms that we were raw recruits started to make us the butt of a good many jokes. Our commander realizing the situation gave us orders to charge them with bayonets and with private instructions not to injure any of them. When we reached at them you never saw such a hasty retreat in all your life. Then when the militiamen found that we were hardened veterans they could not do enough for us and we were feasted and feted for several days. Then we took a train for Pittsburg and through Indianapolis and Louisiana we went down to the southland. We arrived in time to take part in the battles of Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain. Then we marched with the army to Knoxville to the relief of Burnside and afterwards with Sherman across the country to Atlanta. Then, under orders, on we went to Washington to take part in the grand review. We were there for two weeks when I received my discharge from the army. Naturally those days are indelibly written in my memory and I remember scenes and incidents as readily as if I had seen and heard the a few weeks ago instead of 50 years."

An Artilleryman's Experience.

Mathias Jensen of North Main street saw his service at Gettysburg as an artilleryman on a battery of twelve pounders in General Meade's division. He was enlisted in the Fifth Massachusetts Artillery and had already seen hard fighting at Culpepper Court House and at Chancellorsville. Mr. Jensen's battery was not in active operation the first day at Gettysburg but saw its share of that terrible battle on July 2 and 3.

A Narrow Escape.

Although Mr. Jensen was exposed to the fire of cañister and saw his comrades fall from the bullets of his own army, many times in the course of the battle he had one particularly narrow escape from death in the fighting of the second day. His regular task was the ramming home of the charge in the cañon. During a lull in the fighting, while the Fifth Massachusetts was taking a new position on the field, Mr. Jensen asked his corporal for the driver's position on account of the Celebration of Cigarmakers' Union Anniversary Brought to Abrupt Close.

The celebration of the thirty-third anniversary of the organization of Cigarmakers Union, No. 114, held at Daub's Grove Saturday, was interrupted by the rain late in the afternoon. The picnickers gathered at the grove Saturday morning about 10 o'clock and at noon an elaborate picnic dinner was served. An eighty-pound roast made up a part of the menu and lots of other good things to eat were served. All during the day refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed. Edwin R. Wright of Chicago, president of the State Federation of Labor, who was unable to attend. A ball game between the married and single men was started, but was called at the end of the first inning. On account of the rain the athletic program was dispensed with. The success of the affair is due the committee on arrangements of which James J. Wall was chairman.

PLANTS

Requires the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil, sunshine and atmosphere—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth?

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart. You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vasoline, etc. You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out. Newb's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

DOUGLAS' OWN STORY HAS COME TO LIGHT

WRITES BIOGRAPHY AT AGE OF TWENTY-FIVE.

Famous Statesman in Account of Life Refers to Time When He was Resident of Morgan and Scott Counties—First Acquaintance Here was Murray McConnell.

The recent celebration in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birthday of Stephen A. Douglas resulted in the finding of an autobiography of Mr. Douglas by his son, Robert M. Douglas, of Greensboro, N. C. The sketch is a small blank book found among his private papers. It is in his own handwriting, hastily written, and evidently never revised or continued. It is dated September 1, 1838, when he was only 25 years of age. In a portion of the sketch Mr. Douglas referred to the time he first landed in Jacksonville and also of the time he taught school in Scott county. A portion of the autobiography is here given:

At Jacksonville I formed a few acquaintances and attempted to get into business of some kind, say teaching school, clerking, etc., but without success. When I arrived at Jacksonville I had left $1.25 in money and finding that would not pay my board more than one day at the tavern I sold a few school books I had with me for a few dollars, and took up my lodgings at a private house, Mr. Heslip, whose family I have known and esteemed ever since.

One of my first acquaintances at Jacksonville was Murray McConnell, a lawyer of some reputation, who advised me to go to Pekin on the Illinois river and open a law office. I informed him that I had never practiced law, had not yet procured my license, nor had any library. He informed me that he would furnish me with a few books, such as I would stand in most need of immediately, and wait for the pay until I was able to pay him, and did so to the amount of $30 worth, which I received and subsequently paid him for.

He told me that a license was a matter of no consequence, that I could practice before a justice of the peace without one and get one at any time I desired to do so. I concluded to take his advice and consequently packed up my things and went to Meredosia on the Illinois river to take a steamboat to Pekin. Arriving at the river I waited one week for a steamboat, and then learned that he only boat which was expected to stop at the river that season had blown up at Alton, and consequently there would be no boat up until next spring.

What was now to be done? After paying my bill at the tavern I had but 50 cents left. I could find nothing to do there, and had no money to get away with. Something must be done and that soon.

I inquired as to the prospect of getting a school, and was told by a farmer residing in the country a few miles that he thought I could obtain one at Exeter, about ten miles distant, and if I would go home with him that night he would go to Exeter with me the next day. I accepted his invitation, left my trunk at Meredosia, rode behind the farmer on the same horse to his home and the next day we both went to Exeter.

He introduced me to several citizens, who were very polite and kind, but did not think a school could be obtained there, but if I would go to Winchester, 8 or 10 miles further on, they had no doubt I would succeed in obtaining one. I thought this was rather poor encouragement, but what was to be done? I was out of money and still in too feeble health to perform any very arduous labor, and must do something to live, for I was too proud to beg.

Teaches School at Winchester. I therefore determined to go to Winchester and make another effort. Accordingly I parted with my friend, the kind-hearted, hospitable farmer, and, taking my coat on my arm, went to Winchester on foot that night. Arriving at the town, I went to the only tavern in the place, introduced myself to the landlord and told him I wished to stop a few days with him, to which he readily assented.

The landlord introduced me to the citizens generally, who seemed pleased with the idea of a new school in their little town, and in a few days obtained for me a subscription list of about forty scholars. In the meantime there was, on the second day after my arrival, an administrator's sale, at which all the personal estate of a dead man's estate was to be disposed of at auction, and the administrator applied to me to be clerk at the auction, make out the sale bills, draw the notes, etc., which I very cheerfully consented to do, and performed my duty in the best style I knew how, and received $5 for two days' labor therein.

About the first of December I commenced my school and closed it about the first of March, having during the whole time a goodly number of scholars and giving, as I believe, general satisfaction to both scholars and parents. During this period I attended to considerable law business before justices of the peace and formed an extensive acquaintance with the people in that part of the country.

Political Excitement Growing. There was considerable political excitement growing out of the veto of the United States bank and the removal of the deposits by Gen. Jackson, or rather the removal of the secretary of the treasury because he would not remove the deposits, and the appointment of Dr. Taney in his place, who did remove them from the vaults of the United States Bank One evening at the Lyceum Josiah Lambert, a lawyer of some distinction from Jacksonville, made a speech denouncing the leading measures of Gen. Jackson's administration, and especially the veto and removal of the deposits. He characterized the first of these acts as arbitrary and tyrannical, and the last as dangerous and unconstitutional.

Being a great admirer of Gen. Jackson's public and political character and a warm supporter of the principles of his administration, I could not remain silent when the old hero's character, public and private, was traduced and his measures misrepresented and denounced. I was then familiar with all the principles, measures and facts involved in the controversy, having been an attentive reader of the newspapers of the day and having read also with great interest the principal works in this country, such as the debates in the convention that formed the constitution of the United States, and the convention of the several states in the adoption of the constitution; the Federalist, John Adams' work, denominated a defense of the American constitution; the opinions of Randolph, Hamilton and Jefferson on the constitutionality of the bank, as published by Gales & Seaton; Jefferson's works, etc. I had read all of them and many other political works with great care and interest and had my political opinions firmly established.

I engaged in the debate with a good deal of zeal and warmth and defended the administration of Gen. Jackson and the cause of the Democratic party in a manner which appeared highly gratifying to my friends and which certainly gave me some little reputation as a public speaker, much more than I deserved.

Commences Law Practice Here

When first quarter of my school expired, I settled my accounts, finding that I had made enough to pay my expenses, I determined to remove to Jacksonville, the county seat of the same (Morgan) county, and commence the practice of the law. In the month of March I applied to the Hon. Samuel D. Lockwood, one of the justices of the supreme court, and, after a short examination, obtained a license and immediately opened an office (in the court building), being less than 21 years of age.

First Week in City.

During the first week of my residence in Jacksonville, the Whig (alias Federal) party called a county meeting, and made speeches and passed resolutions denouncing the administration in the severest terms, and more especially in relation to the bank and currency question. The next week the Democrats called a meeting and of the most numerous and spirited I have ever witnessed in that county.

It was composed principally of farmers and mechanics, men who are honest in their political sentiments, and feel a deep interest in proper administration of public affairs, although but few of them are accustomed to public discussion. It so happened that at that time, out of twelve members of the bar, there was not a Democrat among them.

This meeting I attended, and at the earnest solicitation of my political friends (for personal friends I had not then had time to form), consented to make a speech. The excitement was intense, and I was rather severe in my remarks upon the opposition; so much so as to excite the bitter hostility of the whole of that party, and, of course, the warm support of my own party.

Note—This is the speech which was carried on the shoulders of his admirers, and dubbed the "Little Giant" speech.

*For this kindness, which was never forgotten, Douglas secured the appointment for McConnell of fifth auditor of the treasury department.

Patriot Prints Speech.

The next week the Patriot, the organ of the opposition, printed and published by James G. Edwards, Esq., devoted two entire columns of the paper to me and my speech, and continued the same course for two or three successive weeks. The necessary consequence was that I immediately became known to every man in the county and was placed in such a situation as to be supported by one party and opposed by the other.

This notoriety, acquired by accident, and founded on no particular merit, proved highly serviceable to me in my profession, for within one week thereafter I received for collection demands to the amount of thousands of dollars from persons I had never seen or heard of and who would probably have not known that such a person as myself was in existence but for the attacks upon me by the opposition papers.

So essential was the service thus rendered by my opponents that I have sometimes doubted whether I was not morally bound to pay the editor for his abuse according to the usual prices of advertisements.

This incident illustrates a principle which is important to men of the world, and especially politicians, to bear in mind. How foolish how imprudent the indiscriminate abuse of political opponents whose humble condition or insignificance prevents the possibility of injury and who may be thus acquired!

Errors of Political Editors.

I firmly believe that this is one of the frequent and great errors committed by the political editors of the present day. Indeed, I sincerely doubt whether I owe most to the kind and efficient support of my friends, and no man similarly situated ever had better or truer friends, or to the violent, reckless and impudent opposition of my enemies. Certain I am that without both these causes united I could never have succeeded as well as I have done. But I must forbear, for I find that I am philosophizing, which is far from my present purpose.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS.

July Fourth Accident—Springfield's first accident from Fourth of July celebrations occurred when Harry Murray, nine years old, a school boy, accidentally shot himself in the left hand, at the residence, 1600 East Phillips avenue. The wound from the toy pistol lodged in the second finger of the right hand. He was taken to a physician, who extracted the wad and gave him antitoxin to prevent lock jaw from developing. Later he was taken to the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murray.

Safe Experts Baffled.—Six experts have been hacking and boring away at an inoffensive appearing safe half a century old since Monday, and Friday had not loosened its grip a mile. The safe, which contains $18,000 stands in the office of H. S. R. Wood, treasurer of the Chicago and Alton railroad. C. I. Rohde, the cashier, came down to the office Monday morning and twirled the combination. The tumblers refused to tumble and the heavy doors stuck fast, after half an hour of struggle he called a safe expert. He stuck with it a day and then gave up. Five other experts followed in his footsteps. Another expert with a new system tried the lock. He approached the safe from the rear, melted a hole in its back and angled for the combination with wires. No signs of yielding were apparent after his initial effort.

Food Inspectors Visited Galesburg.—State food inspectors have completed an investigation of groceries, bakeries, meat markets, candy factories, ice cream factories and other businesses catering to consumers of food in Galesburg and reported that they had found unsanitary conditions in twenty-five such places of business. This is not an alarming state of affairs, the inspectors say, but is about normal in cities of this size. W. H. Durant and Alex Peterson of the state pure food inspection department have spent the past few days in Galesburg and have been endeavoring to impress upon the merchants the necessity of using extra care in hot weather to ward against unsanitary conditions.

Chickens Hatched in Egg Case.—Ray Stickle, a Greenfield poultry dealer, is short twelve eggs in a shipment of twenty cases which were unloaded at 2 o'clock today. While sitting on one of the cases, James Wade, a barber, discovered that it contained nine young chicks. The extreme hot weather is supposed to have caused this unusual hatch.

Washington Wants to Keep Pastor.—It is reported in Springfield that the congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Washington, D. C., is loathe to part with its pastor, the Rev. Dr. Donald C. McLeod, who has been called to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Springfield and has voted not to ask the Presbytery to dissolve the relations between them and their pastor. It is probable, however, that the Presbytery will act in accordance with the desire of the minister and that he will accept the Springfield call.

To Vote on Bond Issue.—The township high school board organized at Virden recently and decided to call an election June 28 for the purpose of voting $45,000 in bonds for building the new township high school building. The architect's plans call for a building that will cost $42,000. Receiver for Bunker Hill Bank—Attorneys representing various parties, ies, the committee representing creditors and J. H. Belt, one of the partners of the defunct Bunker Hill bank, have agreed on a receiver being appointed for the Belt Brothers & Co. bank, and Judge Shirley made an order in the circuit court appointing A. S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill, former state's attorney of Macoupin county, receiver. Mr. Cuthbertson qualified by filing a bond in the sum of $100,000.

Fire Threatened Powder House.—Colonists at Plaza Chautauqua spent several hours recently fighting a fire which for a time threatened the plant of the Illinois Powder company at Sherman Hollow, a mile from Plaza Chautauqua. The powder mills are a group of buildings filled with explosives of every description. There was an ample water supply, and back fires were built to draw the flames from the direction of the powder plant. The fire is thought to have originated from fires left by hunters who camped northwest of Grafton. From there the flames swept down in the underbrush to Sherman's Hollow, where the factory is located.

QUICK RELIEF FOR RHEUMATISM.

George W. Koen, Lawton, Mich., says: "Dr. Detel's Relief for Rheumatism has saved my wife wonderful benefit from rheumatism. She could not lift her foot, had to be lifted for two months. She began to use of the remedy and improved rapidly. On Monday she could not move and on Wednesday she got up dressed herself and walked out for breakfast." Sold by L. P. Allott, druggist.

IRREGULARITY OF MOVEMENTS POINT TO WEAKNESS OF MARKET

Disappointing Action of Inter-State Commerce Commission Temporarily Disturbed Market.

New York, June 21.—Increasing volatility in stocks and irregularity of movements this week point to the exhaustion of the larger speculative factors which have been active for a long time.

The week's only important development, so far as recounted in the movement of stocks was the refusal of inter-state commerce commission to re-open the freight rate case on the demand of the eastern roads for a five per cent advance.
Disappointment at this action registered a sharp dip in prices at the end of the week, temporarily disturbed the market, although the decision of the commission to make an inquiry of its own concerning the sufficiency of present rates held open the roads demands.
There was no recurrence of alarm over the money outlook. The road, however, used caution in the use of credit and of further difficulties to be encountered through the excess of demands for capital over the available supply throughout the world.

Financial opinion welcomes the passing of currency legislation for the safeguard of the May supply against strain on the money market. This specific provision of the administration bill are seriously regarded especially the manner of federal control and the disposition of reserves.

LETTER FROM PARIS.
(By Associated Press.)

Paris, June 21.—Paris now has its Chinatown. The first settler arrived a year ago, at the time of the last Chinese revolution. One day a large family of refugees from the middle kingdom presented themselves before the police commissary of the Bastille quarter and requested by signs to be shown a lodging. They were asked their names and where they came from. In reply they traced on paper hieroglyphs which nobody could understand. As they had good golden louis in their pockets the officials did not insist, and led them to two inexpensive lodging houses close by the Lyons railroad depot.

Soon other families joined them, and now they are numbered several hundred. One hotel shelters 15 Chinese in five rooms. Every morning the men sally out to buy rice, turnips and potatoes, which they cook themselves in their rooms. Then they set to work making toys which the women and children sell all over the city. Some of the children juggle with knives in wine shops. As these eastern colonists are peaceful, silent and pay regularly they are popular guests with the lodging house proprietors. The people of Paris upon them with benign curiosity. The children in particular are a never failing source of interest. The good housewives of the quarter are always asking them:

"Are you a boy or a girl?"

To which the little ones invariably reply, "Two sons, two sons."

It is all the French they have learned.

The taste of French smokers for tobacco grown in the United States has increased remarkably during the last twelve months. Seven times as much tobacco entered France from the United States in January and February, 1913, as was brought in during the corresponding months of the previous year. The importations of January and February, 1913, amounted to $800,000 in value. French buyers of tobacco are now kept in America the whole year round. Last year the French government received a net revenue of more than $195,000,000 from the monopoly it exercises over the sale of tobacco in the republic.

The director of a French technical college, M. A. Magnan, has announced before the Academy of Sciences the discovery of a formula by means of which he expects to solve many of the remaining puzzling problems of aeronautics.

Up to the present, says M. Magnan, aeroplanes have been constructed practically without reference to nature's own principles as exemplified in the flight of birds. It has been thought that the great relative difference in weight between a bird and an aeroplane made the fundamental principles of bird flight inapplicable to the man-made machine. M. Magnan declares his formula solves this difficulty. By means of it he is now able, for the first time, to give the dimensions, curves and other figures of a man lifting machine constructed on the principles of bird flight. It is simply a question, he declares, of magnifying the bird measurements according to a formula which will scientifically adjust the various parts as the human machine increases in size.

King Goes Walking.

Geneva, June 21.—The King of Wurtemberg is taking his holiday this year in walking excursions. He goes quite alone except for his favorite dog. He is staying at one of his country places near Friedrichshafen, on the other side of Lake Constance. He came over a day of two ago in the little tourist steamer to the Swiss shore at Rorschach. As a simple traveler he went into a bar and ordered a glass of beer.

"You have a beautiful dog," said the Swiss waitress as she served him.

"Yes, more beautiful than I am," replied the king.

"That is true," said the girl, glancing at the king, "and certainly he is far younger."

"You are perfectly right," replied the king.

He drank his beer and left a gold piece on the table. The girl ran after him down the street, saying he had forgotten his change. "Oh, no," answered the king, "you are to keep the money as a souvenir of the King of Wurtemberg, to whom you have paid the unaccustomed compliment of sincerity."

WEDDING IN CABINET CIRCLES.

Washington, June 21.—A large representation of the cabinet circle, together with numerous other persons of prominence in the official and resident society of the capital, today journeyed to Brooklandville, in the Green Spring valley, to attend the wedding of Miss Ethel Preston McCormack, daughter of Mrs. Isaac E. Emerson of Baltimore, and Mr. Francis Hager McAdoo, son of William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury. The wedding took place this afternoon at Brooklandwood, the country estate of the Emersons.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Emerson by her first husband. Her stepfather, Capt. Isaac E. Emerson, is the father of Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, formerly Mrs. Smith McKim. Mr. McAdoo, the bridegroom, is a graduate of Princeton university and of the Columbia law school.

MANCHESTER-NEW YORK SERVICE.

London, June 21.—Never before in the history of transatlantic steamship navigation has a similar period witnessed the establishment of so many regular services between Europe and America as has the past year. To the list of those already in operation another was added today with the sailing of the steamer Memphis of the White Star line. The Memphis inaugurates the first regular service between Manchester and New York. It is planned to have regular sailings between the two ports every three weeks hereafter.

CHARLTON'S THREE YEARS IN JAIL.

New York, June 21.—Porter Charlton, whom the supreme court of the United States recently decided must be returned to Italy to be tried for the murder of his wife, today completed his third year as a prisoner in the Hudson county jail in New Jersey. Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton was murdered in Italy in the early part of June, 1910. The body, having been put into a trunk and thrown into Lake Como, was soon found, but not until Charlton had fled and was on the sea bound for New York. He arrived here on June 22, 1910, and within an hour after his arrest he confessed to the Hoboken police that he was guilty of the crime charged against him.

Charlton was promptly committed to the Hudson county jail. He has been there ever since, while his family and counsel have exhausted every means known to law to prevent his extradition to Italy. Two weeks ago the last hope was lost when the supreme court decided that the confessed murderer must be surrendered to the Italian authorities.

It is expected that within another month young Charlton will be on his way back to Italy in the custody of the Italian police. Even had he not confessed his crime, it is believed that the young man would have little chance of escaping conviction, as under the Italian system a prisoner is supposed to be guilty until proved innocent. There is no death penalty in Italy, and if Charlton is convicted he will probably get a sentence of twenty years in prison, ten of them in solitary confinement.

TRIAL OF DR. CRAIG POSTPONED UNTIL COOLER MONTHS

Must Answer Then for Alleged Murder of Dr. Helene Knabe—Woman Was Found Dead With Throat Cut.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—The trial of Dr. William B. Craig, of this city and of A. M. Ragsdale, an undertaker, upon the charge of having murdered Dr. Helene Knabe in October, 1911, had been set for next Monday, but as the trial is expected to be quite lengthy and it was considered undesirable to carry it through the hot summer months, the agreement is said to have been reached to let the case go over until some time in the fall. The trial promises to be one of the most interesting and sensational ever heard in Indianapolis and will, undoubtedly, attract countrywide attention.

A Mysterious Case.

The death by murder of Dr. Helene Knabe on the night of October 23, 1911, was one of the most mysterious cases in the criminal history of the city, and, in the minds of many persons, who firmly believe in the innocence of the accused men, is still an unsolved mystery. The victim of the crime, Dr. Helene Knabe, was about 35 years of age at the time of her death, unusually attractive and rightly respected for her excellent character and her scientific attainments. She was born in Germany, as the daughter of a civil engineer in the German army. She had received a good education in her fatherland and came to America to satisfy her ambition to become a doctor. She graduated from the Indiana College of Medicine and continued her studies even after she had established herself in this city as a regular practitioner. Besides attending to her steadily growing practice Dr. Knabe delivered lectures on pathology at several colleges, including the Indiana Veterinary college, of which Dr. Craig, the principal defendant in the coming trial, is the dean. For several years she was state bacteriologist, but she resigned her position a short time before her death to gain more time for her practice and her studies. She had a wide circle of acquaintances, but only a few intimate friends and, it is believed, no enemies.

Found Dead in Bed.

Dr. Knabe lived and had her office on the first floor of an apartment house located on a busy street corner. The apartment occupied by Dr. Knabe was in the corner of the building and had windows to both streets. She lived alone, but employed an office girl, Katherine McPherson, who came in the morning and attended to the work in the living rooms and the office during the day, leaving for her own home early in the evening. When Miss McPherson came to Dr. Knabe's apartment on the morning of October 24, 1911, she found all windows closed, contrary to the habit of her employer, who believed in a plentiful supply of fresh air. Dr. Knabe was on her bed, dressed only in her night gown, which was rolled up under her arms, leaving the body bare. Her throat had been cut by a powerful gash, but no knife or other weapon could be found and there were only a few traces of blood upon the bed and upon her body. Miss McPherson called physicians but they could only establish the fact that Dr. Knabe had died several hours before as a result of the wound in her throat.

The authorities were notified and the police made a careful investigation, without being able to find any clue that would throw the faintest light upon the mystery of the case. Notwithstanding the fact that no weapon could be found in the apartment and the even more baffling absence of blood upon the bed covers or in any part of the room where the body was found, the police in the end advanced the absurd theory that Dr. Knabe had committed suicide and abandoned further investigation.

Immediately after the discovery of the crime Jefferson Haynes, the colored janitor of the apartment house and several members of his family were arrested, but there was no evidence to connect them with the murder and they were finally discharged from custody. Their testimony shed no light whatever upon the mysterious case.

Dr. Craig Accused.

After the police had given up the investigation, the Indianapolis Council of Women, composed of some of the most prominent women in Indianapolis undertook to solve the mystery. They employed H.C. Webster, a private detective, to hunt the murderer. It was upon the findings of his investigation that the grand jury based the indictment found on December 31, 1912, against Dr. William Craig as principal, and Alonzo M. Ragsdale as accessory to the crime. It was shown to the grand jury that Dr. Craig and Dr. Knabe had been intimate friends for a long time and that Dr. Knabe insisted upon Craig marrying her. It was also shown that on the evening before her death Dr. Knabe had visited the Craig home. It was also pointed out that the person who committed the murder was a person thoroughly familiar with human anatomy. Dr. Craig has been at liberty under $15,000 bail.

MEXICANS OBSERVE HOLIDAY.

City of Mexico, June 21.—An artillery salute at daybreak and the hoisting of the national flag over all public buildings today marked the anniversary of the taking of the City of Mexico by the forces of Gen. Porfirio Diaz, June 21, 1867. The fall of the capital to the Liberal troops under General Diaz as a fatal blow to the Imperialists and practically ended the long war of the French invasion. The anniversary is regularly observed as a holiday.

The Run Came In.

Joe Sugden claims that he is the only living rival to John Anderson, who made baseball history by stealing second with the bases full.

Joe let a tying run step across the plate while he held the ball in his hand and refused to touch the runner. There were men on second and third, one man out, the score 3 to 2 one day at New Orleans, when Charleston was playing there, back in 1893. The game was stopped for some reason, and the coach at first sat on the sack during the delay. Joe looked over the infield and saw three men on bases.

The first ball pitched when the game was again started was hit to the third baseman, who threw home in worlds of time to get the man trying to score. Joe thought the man was forced out and yelled at Denny Long, the first baseman, to get on the sack to complete a double play, while Long yelled at Joe to touch his man.

The runner stepped nimbly on the plate while Joe swore at the first baseman.

They revived Joe with cold water after he had discovered what he had done.

Each to All.

Who lives pure life and doeth righteous deed And walks straight paths—however others stray.

This is the better way. No drop but serves the slowly lifting tide, No dew but has an errand to some flower, No smallest star but sheds some helpful ray.

And man by man, each giving to all the rest, Makes the firm bulwark of the country's power.

There is no better way. —Susan Coolidge.

Branded Him.

Dr. Norman Porritt, the consulting surgeon of the Royal Infirmary at Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England, does not mind telling a story against himself. He says that on one occasion he was called to a butcher's shop to examine some meat that had been condemned by the medical officer of health as being unfit for human consumption. When the case came on for hearing in the local police court one of the witnesses, a butcher, was asked, "Who were present when the meat was examined?"

To which the witness answered quite seriously, "Dr. Porritt and a number of other butchers."

A Scot's Tune One Scot Didn't Like.

A new admiral—a MacDonald—had succeeded Admiral Campbell in the command of a British squadron. The band had been in the habit of playing "The Campbells Are Coming" when their former admiral had a dinner party, and they did so in honor of MacDonald.

The first time the chief of the MacDonalds heard it (tells Admiral Fitzgerald in "Memories of the Sea") he was very angry and sent for me—the captain being on shore—and the following dialogue took place:

"What do they mean by playing 'The Campbells Are Coming'?"

"It has been customary to play it, sir, as a compliment to Admiral Campbell, and, being a Scotch air, no doubt the bandmaster thought it would be agreeable to you."

"Agreeable to me! Don't you know the next line of the song, 'The Campbells are coming, the MacDonalds are running?' Never let me hear that tune again."

And the bandmaster was ordered to teach the band "The Garb of Old Gaul" instead.

"Granny Vic."

The subjects of Queen Victoria held their sovereign in veneration and respect. It was only among her own family circle, where she was "granny" and not "her majesty," that any criticism of her character and disposition was ever heard. There is one amusing incident in point told by Mrs. Hugh Fraser in "The Reminiscences of a Diplomatist's Wife."

Miss Elizabeth C. Berdan was an intimate friend of the young princesses and was in great request at the palace as a playmate for the young girls.

One day one of the princesses gave Miss Berdan a ring. It was a pretty little trinket, but simple and inexpensive. "I would like to give you something much finer, Bessie," said the princess apologetically, "but, you know, Granny Vic is so stingy!"

"Shifting Sands."

Scoop had been assigned to cover the lecture of a noted French orator. The hall in which the lecture was delivered was very warm and comfortable, and Scoop went to sleep. At the close of the lecture he woke up with a start, and as he pulled himself together his hazy mind caught the words "shifting sands." That was sufficient for Scoop. Arriving at the office, he straightway proceeded to the "dope room," where he spent a good half hour reading about shifting sands.

When the French orator opened the paper next morning he found himself credited with having given a long talk on shifting sands the night before. Jamming the paper into his pocket, the Frenchman went with long strides to the editor and demanded an explanation for the story.

"What is the matter?" asked the editor. "Doesn't the article cover the subject fully?"

"Cover ze subject, indeed!" replied the Frenchman. "I said nothing about ze shifting sands, except dat zay would be ze subject on which I lecture next week!" Judge.

KING VISITS NEWSPAPER OFFICE

Madrid, June 21.—King Alfonso's thirst for information led him recently to inspect the new plant of El Imparcial, one of the well known newspapers of Madrid. In company with Count Romanones, his prime minister, the young ruler of Spain went through in succession the editorial rooms, the business offices and the composing rooms. In the latter the printers set up an inscription reading: "Long live the king," which his majesty insisted on carrying away as a souvenir. As he stood watching one of the new rotary presses at work, the king turned to his prime minister and said, "Ah! those are the machines for roasting politicians."

The king later was entertained at a luncheon at which all the employees of the paper were present.

PRINTER

Receives the Plaudits of the Public

Vigilant Protector of People's Emirs. "Officer Printype" Responds with Becoming Modesty.

Officer Printype says: "I am overwhelmed by the ovation which has greeted my appearance in your midst. I am simply doing my sworn duty in ridding the Business and Financial Districts of the Bad Characters that for years have made Typewriters a menace to your eyesight. I have mercilessly exposed and relentlessly pursued these dangerous Typewriter Types, which are responsible for more cases of Defective Vision than all other cause combined."

"Report direct to my Headquarters, in the Oliver Typewriter building, Chicago, any machine whose type is violating the Optical Law and I'll have the offender haled before the Court of Public Opinion."

Printype OLIVER Typewriter

Printype is owned and controlled exclusively by The Oliver Typewriter Company.

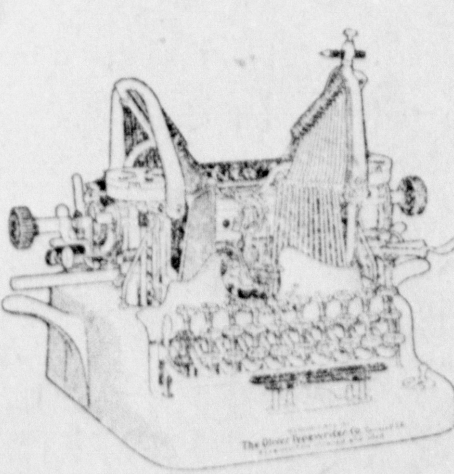

America rings with praise and applause for Printype. This superb new typewriter type has attracted more attention than any typewriter innovation brought out in recent years.

Hundreds of thousands of people have seen this new type and wondered what it was that made Printype Correspondence seem like a spoken message. There's virility, strength and charm in Printype correspondence. There's refinement and "class" and style.

Not because of its novelty—it's inherent in the type.

A Vast Improvement.

Printype is designed in shaded letters and numerals, like the type in which books and magazines are printed. It is book type transformed and adapted to modern typewriter requirements.

This radical departure from the old style "outline" letters makes it possible to produce, on the Oliver Typewriter, a page of manuscript as clear and attractive as that of the finest book. The Oliver is the first and only typewriter that successfully prints!

The Primary Reason.

Printype resulted from our discovery that "outline" type, with its sameness, due to absence of shading, was harmful to the eyes.

The Silent Test.

For months, without any advertising, we put hundreds of Printype Oliver Typewriters into actual service, in many diverse lines of business. We wanted the public's verdict. It came in a burst of admiration and a flood of orders that proved Printype a brilliant success.

Printype letters, wherever seen, excited the keenest interest. Business men who received their first Printype letter almost invariably answered, post haste—Where did you get that type? Thus Printype captured the country without firing a single shot.

Price Not Advanced.

The Printype Oliver Typewriter sells for $100. You can pay at the rate of 17 cents a day. The "Printype" is our latest and best model. The new type adds 25 per cent to the value, but not one cent to the price. A small cash payment brings the machine.

INSTALLING NEW MACHINERY.
O. N. Barr received a new collar and cuff ironing machine Saturday which he expects to have ready for use the middle of next week. It has a capacity of 1,000 pieces per hour.

STYLE POINTS.

Afternoon Costume in Moss Green and White.

COAT AND SKIRT OF SILK.

Futurist silk in a charming tapestry design in moss green tones was used for the coat and skirt of this frock, the tunic being of white tulle. White crocheted ball buttons trim coat and skirt, and a fichu of machine embroidery is draped over the shoulders. Buttoned walking boots accompany the smart costume.

Queens Who Could Earn Living.

The queen of England would have no difficulty in supporting herself. She would be most valuable in a dairy, and as a needlewoman she has few equals. If her husband were a workman instead of being a king she could darn the children's clothes. Her majesty could also make a living by two great accomplishments she possesses. These are her fine contralto voice and her capacity as water colorist.

The dowager queen of Italy could earn her living as a lecturer on Shakespeare and Dante.

Queen Elizabeth of Bulgaria could make her living as a hospital nurse. Queen Helena of Italy, Queen Victoria of Spain and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland would all three be at their best when looking after children.

Queen Maud of Norway, under the name of Graham Irving, has met with much applause as dramatic author.

Queen Elizabeth of Belgium holds a doctor's diploma from the University of Leipzig.

Piquant Parasols.

The parasols of this year of color, 1913, are very brilliant. As for shapes, the imagination fails to conjure up a possible form in which they have not already appeared. They are so gay and original that they will be invaluable adjuncts to help out a simple summer dress.

One curious fad in this connection is that of using a tassel of old and faded silk to adorn the handle of one's sunshade. If you have anything of the kind among your belongings now is the time to resurrect it, as Paris, with proverbial originality, has declared it to be "grand chic."

Paris also insists on the wearing of gloves after having allowed them to lapse last winter into a sort of "innocuous desuetude." The natural color is now more fashionable than white. Long suede mousquetaire gloves are worn with abbreviated sleeves, and the more they wrinkle the better is Dame Fashion pleased.

New Porch Rug.

The time for open air entertaining is here, and for this reason interest is increasing in those things that tend to add to its charm. One of these is a new lawn and veranda rug, which is woven out of Cape Cod grass fiber, the fiber being in cord form, both thick and durable. It is woven in soft colors that give a parquet floor effect. Being impervious to water, it may be spread upon the lawn to protect guests from dampness and yet not be injured from moisture. It also makes an excellent veranda and cottage rug.

There is also a French porch rug, oval, octagonal or elliptical in shape, made of fiber, which has an openwork scallop border that is very attractive. It comes in many sizes and shapes.

Outdoor Sleeping Cap.

The custom of sleeping out of doors is becoming so popular that there are now many devices for making it possible to sleep outdoors and still enjoy all the comforts of an indoor bed. One of these articles is a cap which covers the head and well over the cheeks and forehead, with a cape portion that extends over the neck. It is fashioned of soft knit cloth with a pretty touch of color in the silk binding and a silk tie under the chin.

Charming Summer Hat.

A charming leghorn hat has a bowl shaped crown entirely covered with narrow plaited frills of pink maline. Two large pink roses are caught on either side of the wide brim.

TREES AND SHRUBS ADD BEAUTY TO LAWNS AND GARDEN YARDS

Some Valuable Instructions Concerning the Best Kinds to Grow in the State of Illinois and Also Those Which Should Not Be Grown.

BY H. F. MAJOR.

Formerly Instructor in Landscape Gardening, University of Illinois.

One can always detect a new and "green" community by the presence of an abundance of "weeping" mulberries, cotton woods and box elders. These species have their place, but their place is not in this state, today. They are a temporary structure and should be avoided unless absolutely necessary for protection of more stable and slower-growing material; or in a desert country where nothing else will grow.

Do you wish to know what is good

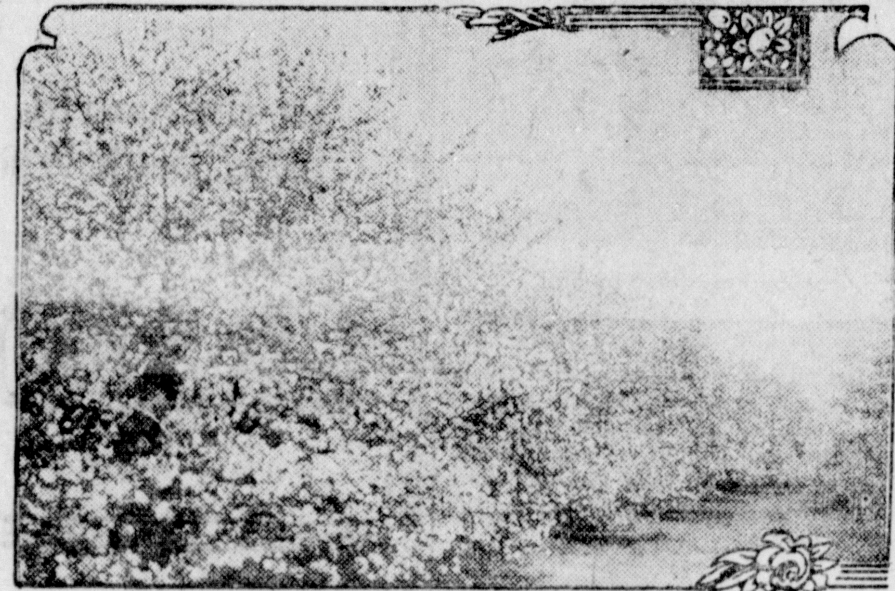

A. Refined for small grounds and near the house.

B. Coarse shrubs for distant border and woodland plantations.

Here again beware of the nursery agent who wants to sell you the "best" selling shrub on the market, or a "new and choice variety" of the old standard. Until you get time and money to run an "experiment station" plant the good old kinds. You will find that there are plenty of these which are new in the community.

The following list gives a number of their refinement:

1. Tall Shrubs: Lilacs, Giant Glorified Mock Oranges, Althaea or Rose of Sharon, Hydrangea Grandi-

SPRINGTIME IN ILLINOIS.

and why? The American elm is the best tree in the world for street or lawn. It is tall and wide spreading, hardy and grows fairly rapidly after the third or fourth year. The Norway and Sugar Maples and the Ash are also very desirable. Of the fine lawn trees, any of the following are excellent and should grow well in this state—Horse Chestnut, Tulip Tree, Hackberry, Linden, Sycamore, and I cannot recommend too strongly the use of Evergreens, such as the Austrian pine, the Hemlock and the White and Norway spruces.

Of the smaller ornamental and flowering trees which may be introduced in shrub borders, we have the following:

The American Mountain Ash—Sorbus Anusaria; the Red Bud—Cercis Canadensis; the Flowering Dogwood—Cornus Florida; the Yellow Wood—Virgilia Lutea; the Hawthorne—Crataegus Cocinea.

In shrubbery the variation is of several classes:

1. Tall shrubs.

2. Medium shrubs.

3. Small shrubs.

And these may be divided into two main classes:

1. In making your choice, have an object in view. Don't plant shrubs without a reason. Some plants are desirable for their wealth of bloom, others for their fruiting quality, while often the chief value lies in the splendid coloration both in the spring and fall.

Proper Rations for Dairy Cows.

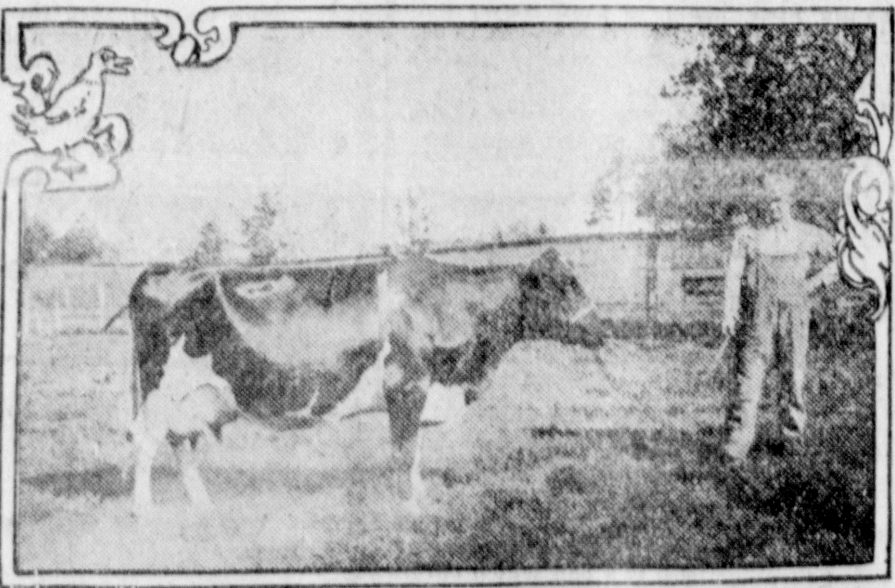

Question: What are some good rations for dairy cows?

Answer: It is very difficult to state exactly what a cow should receive without knowing something regarding her individuality. One should in making out a ration, consider the size of the cow as well as the amount of milk being given and its per cent of butter fat. Some cows can be fed heavier than others and at the same time make good use of their feed for milk production.

The following ration meets approximately the requirements of a 1,000 pound cow giving 20 pounds of 4 per cent milk daily (you will bear in mind that a ration is the amount of feed duced would be sufficient. In the above ration ground corn could be substituted for the oats in the same proportions. In feeding the grain mixture it would be advisable to mix the grain with the silage in the manger as that tends to distribute and to prevent the cow from gorging.

Another grain mixture that might be used would be the following: 2 parts of oil meal, one part wheat bran, 2 parts ground corn. At present prices I believe that the first grain mixture is the cheaper. However, you can figure this out for yourself. You, no doubt, will vary the amount of fodder corn and millet hay feed from the figures I have given you but which a cow is to receive during 24 hours or in one day): corn silage 35 pounds, fodder corn 8 pounds, millet hay 8 pounds, 4 pounds of grain consisting of 3 parts ground oats, 1 part cotton seed meal. The grain in this ration could be fed at the rate of about one pound for each 4 or 5 pounds of milk being produced. If the fodder corn has large percentage of corn, possibly 1 pound of the grain to each 5 pounds of milk being pro-

Handle the Colts.

Get the colts accustomed to having their legs and feet handled while they are young. Then they will not be so apt to be "touchy" about having chains and straps dangling about them when they are older. Most colts like to have their legs brushed and rubbed

Bell System

"It is the Efficiency of the Telephone that Makes it Irresistible to a Great People whose Passion is to Get Results."

So says Arnold Bennett, our distinguished English guest and commentator.

"The European telephone is a toy and a somewhat clumsy one," he continues, "compared with the inexorable seriousness of the American Telephone. The instance with which the communication is given, and the clear loudness of the telephone's voice in reply to yours, are phenomena utterly unknown in Europe."

Nothing on earth in the nature of a public service approaches in efficiency or universality the Bell System in America.

Walking Typhoid May be Your Trouble.

Why Drag Along, Worn to the Bone When You Can be Robust, Happy and Full of Life.

With your blood full of catarrhal infection, nerves all unstrung, blood impoverished, headaches, lassitude, pellagra, hookworm, tape worm, chills and fever or some other debilitating influence, the very foundation of health is being sapped away by spring humors.

S. S. S. is a Wonder. It Makes You Look and Feel the Picture of Real Health.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, jangled nerves, and a mournful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using nervines that spasmodically fire up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

If you feel played out or experience the peculiar sensations of gas and tenderness in the bowels, go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S. Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine just as active and just as timely as to a man who has been lost in the mountains, is about starved and comes across a settler just cooking a savory meal of good honest beef. Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Send for their free book telling of the many strange conditions that afflict the human family by reason of impoverished blood.

THE WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

OUTBURST OF SELLING SCALES DOWN PRICES

STOCKS IN SOME CASES WERE FORCED TO LOW LEVELS.

Chief Cause of Disturbance Was the Refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to Reopen Freight Rate Case.

(By Associated Press)

New York, June 21.—Quotations were scaled down generally today under an outburst of selling which in some cases forced stocks nearly to the low levels touched in the severe break of last week. Trading was much more active than in recent days and the market was unsettled throughout the two hour session.

The chief cause of renewed selling was the refusal of the interstate commerce commission to reopen the freight rate case on the petition of the eastern roads for a five per cent advance. While the action of the commission was modified by the statement that it would conduct an inquiry on its own account into the matter of present rates the news had an acute disturbing influence.

Bear traders made the most of these conditions, attacking the whole list at the opening. Such stocks as Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Reading, Steel, Amalgamated and Smelting broke 2 to 3 points. Steel dropped to 50, within a point of last week's low and the preferred at 102 1/2, equalled its previous low. Amalgamated came within a fraction of its recent bottom figure. Trading grew quiet toward the close.

Known movements of currency during the week had pointed to a large gain in cash by the banks so that today's statement showing an increase of $6,800,000 in actual cash holdings, was in line with expectations. The banks continued to pile up reserves adding nearly $5,000,000 to the surplus.

No Secret About Woman's Beauty. The flashing eye, the elastic step and the brilliant complexion are never companions of organic troubles; but it is the distressed expression, aches and pains, faintness, dizziness, that bearing down feeling, and the blues that are the tell tale symptoms. "Running for Congress," the big tabloid musical success, is booked for an early appearance at the Grand Opera House the 23, 24th, 25th, and it is safe to predict that those who have enthused over other organizations of this kind will fairly rave when this greater fun show is seen. No traveling organization appearing at the same prices can take such pride in the scenic equipment, costumes, real comedy, pretty girls and capable list of principals as this. It outshines all competitors in every way that counts. Its chorus is the best trained, its musical numbers are the best presented, its fun is the laughiest, and its enjoyment greater, fourfold, than its nearest equal. Every city fortunate enough to secure an engagement of "Running for Congress" unites in endorsing it as the best play of its kind. The company includes Maggie Le Claire, Grop & Jackson, LeRoy & Cahill, The College Trio, and a chorus of pretty young girls, trained in dances and evolutions that delight the eye. Admission 10 cents.

ABOUT THE CROPS.

While Saturday's pour-down could not be called a "million dollar rain," the effects in Morgan county and surrounding country can scarcely be estimated. Reports from various sections of the country shows that the rain was quite general, more water falling perhaps south of Jacksonville than north. Some sections of the country had not had a rain for six weeks and the drought was beginning to tell upon the crops. The rains came too late to save the oats crop, but will prove a savior of the corn crop. It was a general feeling among the farmers in the city Saturday that conditions had become serious and a third of a corn yield was predicted if the drought had continued a few days longer. The excessive heat of the past few days served the purpose of hastening the growth and as a result some binders are already at work. It is surprising to know how many farmers have plowed up their oats field and planted corn and how many have planted corn for the second time. A. B. McKinney, one of the substantial farmers of the Lynnville neighborhood, stated Saturday that he had been farming for the past thirty years and that he never knew of such a long drought coming so early in the season. Even those who profess acquaintance with weather conditions were at a loss to know the "why" of the atmosphere. About a week ago a rain visited Morgan and Scott counties and in those sections where it hit a vast difference can be seen in the growth of the grain. The corn and wheat look unusually well along the Illinois bottoms and a splendid yield is anticipated.

Charles Lazenby is perhaps the first to finish cutting wheat. He had a piece of 20 acres. James R. Harrison has also finished a small patch. Those who contemplate getting into the fields this week are Walter Fearneyhough, Lynnville, 30 acres; S. N. Bridgeman, 60; A. E. Williamson, 80 acres; Charles Hadden, 40 acres; C. W. Martin, 35 acres; Harry J. Rice, Arnold, 40 acres; A. B. McKinney, 52 acres; Earl Sinclair, 120 acres; Ernest Walters, 30 acres.

Predicted Short Corn Crop.
J. H. Hackett has for years been regarded as an expert on corn crop conditions. He has made it his business for a long period to watch conditions throughout various parts of Illinois and other states because he is a farmer and because of his interest in the subject generally. He is often quoted in the Livestock World and in other farm and stock papers. Early in the season Mr. Hackett predicted that the crop in this county would be short and the season has justified his position. While the rain yesterday will help a great deal Mr. Hackett still believes that next fall will not show a yield equal to the Morgan county standard.

Frank Dannerberger from east of the city was among the business callers in the city Saturday. Frank is superintendent of the Pisgah Presbyterian church Sunday school, one of the live organizations of the county. He is also teacher and manager of the "boys' brigade," a class of forty boys. These boys aside from Sunday school work have contests in all kinds of athletic sports and various diversions delightful to boys' hearts. Mr. Dannerberger has arranged for a benefit social Wednesday night on the lawn of the church in their behalf. A contest is also on in the Sunday school, between the blues, headed by Clifford Davis and the reds, headed by Mrs. Henry Wilborn. The teams are trying to boost the attendance to 100. Mr. Dannerberger is also planning to have a Fourth of July picnic, with a ball game a feature, for the members of the church and their friends.

ELECTRICAL STORM
ACCOMPANIES RAIN

LIGHTNING STRIKES WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH POLE.

Five Cables Are Burned Out and Service is Crippled—Heavy Down-pour General Over County.

Jacksonville and Morgan county were visited with a heavy downpour Saturday afternoon and night, the rain of the afternoon being accompanied by a severe electrical storm which did considerable damage to local telegraph wires.

A bolt of lightning struck a Western Union Telegraph pole at the corner of Alley D and the Wabash right-of-way, burning out five cables and crippling the service of the company in this city. The bolt struck about 4:30 o'clock and came in on the switchboard at the Western Union, burning out several fuses and causing quite a loud report.

When the lightning struck the telegraph pole it set fire to the top cable box above the sub-box. The fire department was called and the flames were extinguished with a small amount of water. An examination showed that the bolt had burned about 20 feet off of each of the five cables. Last night the Western Union had only two wires in working condition, and the Journal's Associated Press leased wire, which comes through the Western Union office, was out of commission. The press report was received over the Chicago & Alton wires at the local passenger station. Manager Pine said last night that a force of men would be put at work on the wires in this city today and complete service is expected to be restored this afternoon.

In the hour and a half that it rained Saturday afternoon the total precipitation amounted to 1.29 inches, according to G. H. Hall, weather observer at Alexander. The rain proved to be quite general over the county, as a good downpour was reported at Alexander, Franklin, Woodson, Murrayville, through the west and at Concord. At Concord it was reported that the rain was much heavier than here and the same holds true with reports from the towns on the south. The rain at Literberry was quite a little lighter than that in Jacksonville. R. H. Vall, who resides near Oak Lawn, reported last night that the water from Mauvalsterre creek was in his pasture and that the Morton road at the point where it crosses the creek, is under water.

Fire Destroys Pasture.
Only the heavy rain of Saturday afternoon saved the residence of John Cain, south of the city, from being destroyed by fire. A passing Chicago & Alton freight train set the blue grass on fire on a 60-acre tract of land. The little blaze soon gained large proportions and the wind ed being strong and in the south, carrying the fire toward the home. When within a quarter of a mile the rain came. The fire also did considerable damage to the blue grass on the farm of John Sheppard, adjoining the Cain property.

Lightning Kills Hogs.
Two hogs belonging to A. J. Harding, south of the city, were killed by lightning during the storm yesterday afternoon. The animals were lying near a farm wagon and Mr. Harding doesn't see how the wagon escaped the stroke.

Fifty years ago men's Straw Hats were almost unknown outside the field. Today the most particular dresser can be seen wearing a Straw Hat. The Straw Hats sold by FRANK BYRNS' Hat Store are known as "The Straw Without a Flaw."

A Successful Week

During the past week Mrs. Millen, special demonstrator for the John Burnham Co., was at this store daily telling the ladies of Jacksonville about the merits of the absolutely pure Burnham extracts and fruit colorings. Incident to the demonstrations Mrs. Millen gave domestic science lectures which were of great value and told her auditors how to make a great variety of delicious gesserts. The interest in the "domestic science school" increased with each day and this was of course a matter of great pleasure to the management of this store. While we believe that every lady who visited the store and listened to Mrs. Millen was fully repaid for the time spent we are nevertheless grateful to every lady who attended for the interest shown. With the hope that the visits of the past week may be followed by many more, we shall continue to make this store

ORDER OF OUSTER GRANTED AGAINST DR. CLAMPT

Judge Thompson Decides Against Him in Mandamus Proceedings—Does Not Appear as a Third Ward Householder Under Charter Provisions.

In the circuit court, Saturday, Judge Thompson rendered a judgment of ouster in the mandamus proceedings brought against Dr. L. H. Clampt, member of the board of education from the Third ward. The proceedings were brought by Commissioner William Newman, through his attorney, W. N. Hairgrove, and Dr. Clampt was represented by Northington, Reeve and Green. Dr. Clampt gave notice of an appeal and by filing bond within thirty days can take the case to the appellate court.

In his plea in answer to the mandamus writ, Dr. Clampt set forth that he had been a householder in the Third ward for many years and that he was duly elected a member of the board of education April 16, 1912. He set forth that subsequently he was notified by his landlord that he must vacate his house and that because he was unable to find a suitable house for rent in the Third ward that he had moved to the Second ward. He maintained further that he intended to keep his legal residence in the Third ward and to move back there whenever he could find a suitable house for rent.

Mr. Hairgrove argued that this plea was not sufficient and that by acknowledging that he was not a householder in the third ward and that he had moved from the ward that Dr. Clampt had forfeited his right to hold office as a member of the board of education from the ward from which he had moved. Two sections from the charter of the Jacksonville school district formed the basis of the reasoning which Mr. Hairgrove followed and on which he won the case. He quoted section 17 of the charter, which reads as follows:

"The board of education shall be appointed, one in each ward of said city, by the city council, by a majority vote or ballot, and no person shall be appointed unless a householder and a resident of said ward for which he is appointed, and each shall serve and hold their office for the term of one year from the date of their said appointment." (This was subsequently changed to provide for the election of two members each year to serve two years.)

He quoted also section 19 of the charter as follows: "All officers under this act shall hold their office until their successors are appointed and qualified; removal from his ward by any director shall vacate his office, and whenever a vacancy shall occur in the office of director, the city council of Jacksonville shall supply the same, upon notice thereof to the clerk of said city, which appointment shall be for the unexpired term only."

If the case is unchanged in the higher court, it will be the duty of the city council to appoint a member to fill out Dr. Clampt's unexpired term.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES.

There was a general rush for home among the autoists Saturday afternoon. A few from a distance remained, thinking that the rain would "blow over" and as a result were forced to remain all night. Travelers from some parts of the county were complaining greatly of the deep dust, but this condition was relieved by the heavy rain.

The meeting of automobile dealers and owners, which was called for Friday night, for the purpose of organizing an automobile club was postponed on account of the small attendance. There is a sentiment among autoists of the county that such an organization should be perfected, for by a mutual helpfulness, many problems of interest to the community could be solved. The dealers are anxious for such a club to be formed and it seems to be a sentiment among them that the officers mainly should be chosen from the ranks of auto owners and not auto dealers. The postponed meeting will take place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the court house and a good attendance is desired.

Complaint is being made in Bloomington and Springfield and other places that the new "dust settler" is injurious to automobile tires. The solution is said to contain largely calcium chloride. The acid contained in the solution is said to be so strong that it eats small holes in the rubber and in a short time shrivels up and destroys its life.

Some people are inclined to think that the automobile affords a pleasure, which takes a great many from church, especially among the younger folk. This certainly is not the fact if the Children's day exercises at a certain country church last Sunday night are taken into consideration. There were counted about the church seventeen automobiles.

The other day a large bottle was broken at the intersection of West State street and Church street. The large pieces of broken glass remained on the street, until ground down by passing vehicles. No doubt many a punctured automobile tire was due to the glass. Recently also in the west end a milk man accidentally dropped several bottles full of milk on the pavement. He did not stop to pick up the glass but left it there at the expense of some automobile tire.

Last week a party of three young men going west in an automobile overtook a man walking. He was hot and dusty and the driver of the car asked him if he would like a lift along the way. The traveler readily consented and was given a ride of five miles, to within a half a mile of his destination. It didn't cost a cent extra to take the passenger, and how much he appreciated the lift and the kindness extended.
